So instead, we've picked just a taster of the world of Bollywood music, selecting 11 of the most memorable and important songs. With films dating from 1951 to 2014, this list will give you a glimpse into just how much Bollywood has changed over the last 60 years, while providing you with some absolute bangers you'll want to add to your playlists, too. Well, the track will give you an idea. Controversial Punjabi rapper Yo Yo Honey Singh waxes lyrical about the virtues of drinking four bottles of vodka (the chours goes: 'I want a hangover tonight') over this dissonant hip hop club beats, which also features Canadian-Indian porn star Sunny Leone. Sure parents hate him, maily for the slackness of his lyrics and for encouraging their sons to dress 'inapprpriately', but the kids love him, as proven by this track's millions and millions of views. Film: 'Dilwalhe Dulhania Le Jayenge' (1995) The song from the most romantic film in a generation 'TDTYJS' nods to Bollywood's wholesome days of yore with playback singers Kumar Sanu and Lata Mangeshkar as star-crossed lovers Raj (Shah Rukh Khan) and Simran (Kajol) are reunited in Punjab's glorious fields. They declare they'll die in each other's arms amid costume changes, location switches (to the Alps), and dream-sequence montages. The combo of glorious melodies, soaring strings and the innocent purity of Lata's voice has been a Bollywood staple for decades. After all, if it ain't broke... Film: 'Awaara' (1951) Raj Kapoor is the father of cinema in post-colonial India. The actor and director was behind a flurry of hits in the 1950s and 1960s - including 'Awaara' - and key to film becoming central to India's cultural imagination. The song 'Awaara Hoon' sees the actor cheerfully sing about being a drifter, tapping into the Partition of 1947 that saw around 10 million people displaced. His everyman charisma touched a nerve, and versions of this song appeared in the Soviet Union and China, with Chairman Mao reportedly a big fan of both film and song.
